Our Letter to German Junghen(n) Families

Below you will find a copy of the letter Roger Yonkin, of Ithaca, NY, and Donna Logan composed and mailed to all families in Germany with the last name Junghen(n) and Junghan(n). We have received several responses from families and are continuing to correspond with them to clarify some details of the family histories they submitted to us. These will be published in a future issue.

Dear Cousin,

For several years, we have worked to gather information regarding our family members in the United States. We have gathered most of the family names in the United States and some information regarding our earliest known ancestors. We publish a family newsletter and hold a family reunion every year. But the one thing missing, is knowledge of our family in Germany and the origin of that family. That is why we are writing to you.

We have always hoped to have time to establish contact with our family in Germany. As far as we know, no one has had contact with our German cousins in more than 100 years. We do not know why there has been this lack of communication but, we hope that this is the year we make contact. You, and a very few other Junghen(n) families we found in Germany, are our only hope. If we receive no response from any of you, we can see no possibility of ever again, having an opportunity to find our German family. Please do us and our German/American families the great service to write, or otherwise contact us. How very important your input will be. Even if you feel you have nothing to contribute, please respond so that we may contact you later.

The following, is a brief history of our family in America. There appears to have been two branches of the Junghen family that emigrated to America in the 18th century. In the early 1700s two brothers, Herman and Heinrich Junghen, immigrated from Germany to the United States and settled in Bucks County, Pennsylvania. We don't know where in Germany they were from.

In the year 1806, another Heinrich Junghen and his Swiss wife, Elizabeth Haines also immigrated to the United States. This family eventually settled near the city of Dushore, Pennsylvania. Family tradition tells us that Heinrich's three brothers may have emigrated the previous year and that Heinrich may have come from the area in or around Kassel, Germany.

By the time the first generation of Junghen children were born in America the families had changed the spelling from Junghen or Junghenn to Younkin, Yonkin, Youngken and Youngkin.

Today in America there are only about 600 families with the last name Younkin or Yonkin. But our family research shows that all of these families are descendants of the previously mentioned emigrees. Now that we accomplished so much work on the Junghen(n) family history here in the United States, we are anxious to find our German family and heritage. We sincerely hope that you will be able to help us with this.

We hope you can guide us in the right direction to begin our German family history research. Is there a particular city in Germany where the Junghen (or Junghan) family was established in these earlier centuries? Are there any family

Does anyone know recognize the name Bernard T. Youngkin, about age 34, who resides near Philadelphia. He was at one time married to a Janice A. (--?). If you know who this might be, please write to Donna Younkin Logan.

Kings of Somerset & Fayette Cos, PA

From Janet Felo, 131 Ridge Ave, Freedom, PA 15042.

...I have a question for you and our cousins. I am researching the KING line from Somerset and Fayette Counties in Pennsylvania. I had a great aunt, Frances Rebecca Williams, who married a George Benton King and they lived in Kansas City, Missouri after marriage and had four children. George according to his obituary and death certificate was born in Uniontown, Fayette County, PA on May 17, 1862 and died Nov. 15, 1947 and was survived by a Mrs. Alice Patterson of Uniontown. I am trying to get more information on his family. I thought if you have any members who are doing KING research I might correspond with them. —

Searching for Donald L. Younkin...

Dear Mrs. Logan,

In 1952 I attended the US Army Signal Corps Officer Candidate School (OCS) (Class 13) at Fort Monmouth, NJ with a Donald L. Younkin whose home-of-record then was Reseda, California. I am trying to contact him to inform him of the organization of an Signal Corps OCS association and of planned reunions. In any even, I hope to generate and distribute to our classmates an up-to-date class directory; to date we have found 30 of the 50 graduates.

I understand you publish a Younkin Family Newsletter. Can you help me find my missing classmate. Unfortunately I have no further information about him. Thanks in advance for any help you might give.

Yours Sincerely Harold A. Fleming

Letter to the Editor

Dear Donna,

My name is Mary Dixon. I live in Oskaloosa, Iowa. My aunt is working on our family tree. We are trying to learn about Alva L. Younkin, born March 25, 1875. His girls names are Fay, Inez, and Marie. He would be a half-brother to my maternal grandfather Amos Brooks. Any info you could give us such as births, marriage and obits. There is a Younkin that lives in Oskaloosa. She gave me your name. If you could provide us with any information it would be appreciated. I would be happy to send it to my aunt. — Mary Dixon, 1109 C. Avenue East, Oskaloosa, IA 52577.

Brenda Botteicher and Lester Younkin Wed

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Younkin

Brenda Botteicher and Lester Younkin were married Sept. 16, 1995, in a double-ring ceremony at Beulah United Methodist Church, by the Rev. Raymond Beal.

The bride is the daughter of Meade and Claudette Botteicher of Johnstown [PA]. The bridegroom is the son of Dorothy J. Younkin of Somerset [PA] and the late Herman S. Younkin.

Presented in marriage by her father, Meade Botteicher, the bride was attended by her sister-in-law Gloria Botteicher, as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Shannon Kassander and Maria Nord.

David Botteicher, brother of the bride, was the best man. Ushers were Mike Castania and Meritt Nord. The flower girl was Tara Botteicher, niece of bride; Marcus Botteicher, ringbearer; Delores Justines, organist; and Caroll Botteicher, vocalist. A reception was held at Ideal firehall. The bride is employed at BiLo Food, Richland. The bridegroom is employed by Rainbow Home Rentals.

The newlyweds reside in Dale Borough.

Disturbed a Church Festival

Henry Snyder, William Ream, Samuel Pierce, Clark Trump, James Younkin, John Younkin, Filmore Younkin and Bert Younkin, all of White Rock, were held for court by Justice of the Peace Crawford Stillwagon Saturday on a charge of disorderly conduct and disturbing a church festival held at the Methodist Protestant church in White Rock on February 28th.

I am not sure, but it may be that these boys might be the sons of Eli Younkin and his first wife Elizabeth Addis and second wife Mary Ellen Garlitz and grandsons of Jacob H. "Devil Jake" and Sarah (Tannehill) Younkin. If so they were young boys at the time of this event. — Donna Younkin Logan

The School Board met yesterday and Alex Kooser and Dayton Younkin, the new members, were sworn in. The retiring members are Jno. Shobert and Freeman McMillen. An organization was elected by electing the following officers for the year: President, Geo. W. Showman; Secretary, Dan Hensil; Treasurer, Daniel Steyer. No disposition has been made of house no. 2, but it will likely be sold Saturday when the board meets again.

MOUNTAIN MATTERS

A few days ago some people were quarrying limestone on the Hyatt farm in Springfield township. Two blasts were to be put off at once and all hands were notified. Osborne and Charles Younkin went down along the pike and when about 150 yards away they met Arabella, the daughter of J. D. Mountain, driving in the direction of the quarry. No warning was given the girl and when opposite the quarry both blasts were discharged. The horse was badly scared and a stone fell so near the animal that it was almost frantic. Miss Mountain had a narrow escape and her father thinks it was small business on the part of the Younkins not to give her warning.

MOUNTAIN MATTERS

It seems that the article in this paper relating to the failure of the Younkin boys to notify Miss Mountain of a blast along the road, when that young lady was approaching in a buggy, and also the article relating to the politics of A. E. Harbaugh, have caused much discussion in the mountain region about Springfield, and The Courier correspondent has been made the subject of some hot words. The truth of the matter is that the material for both items was furnished to The Courier and written in this office, and the Springfield correspondent had nothing to do with their insertion or the foundation for their publication.

The boys mentioned in the article dated November 17th, and 30th, 1899, I believe are the sons of William Dayton and Lucinda (Harbaugh) Younkin. They were teenagers at the time this alleged event took place.

Whispers of the 'Silence and Slow Time'

The Younkings and Minerds, Part IV

By Mark A. Miner

Librarian of Congress James Billington likes to quote the poet John Keats who once wrote of "silence and slow time" — what Billington calls "the lost world of biblical time, in which most Americans lived their lives in the past century."

One of the empty feelings of family research is knowing that the full lives of many Younkings of long ago are virtually forgotten. Younkings of the 1800s lived and worked for scores of years, but their words, personalities, labors, looks, triumphs and tears are all but silenced by the passage of time and the dimming of memory. This article tries to reconstruct the whispers of the lost story of one couple — John M. Younkin and Laura Minerd.

John and Laura were first cousins, and their marriage was among at least 10 in the 19th century between the interlinked Younkings and Minerds of Somerset County, Pa. (Some of these marriages have been profiled in earlier issues of the Younkin Family News Bulletin.) In this case, the bride and groom both were grandchildren of John and Catherine Younkin. Though difficult to understand today, cousin marriages of the era were socially prized as a way to ensure that like-minded couples with similar cultural values and heritage stayed together.

John was born in Lower Turkeyfoot Twp. in 1803, a son of Jacob "of John" and Eleanor Younkin. Because many Younkin cousins were named John, he often went by "Lowry John," a slang version of his wife's name. Laura was born in 1813, a daughter of Jacob and Catherine (Younkin) Minerd Jr. She grew up on a 500-acre farm at Hexebarger, near what is now the Old Bethel Church.

John and Laura married in the early 1830s. They spent their adult years in the Turkeyfoot region, working and raising their family of 10 children. He was a farm laborer but never owned land of his own. In addition to her role as a wife, mother and housekeeper, she was a "spinster," a 19th century term for a seamstress. As well, they helped raise their young granddaughter Harriet C. Younkin after the girl's mother died. Occasionally John attended community events such as estate auctions of deceased relatives and friends. In February 1852 he bought "1 Lot of Bees" at the auction of the late Michael Ansell, suggesting that both men made honey.

One of John and Laura's daughters died young. In later years, they suffered the deaths of two adult sons, one in war and the other of a yet unknown cause.

Neither John nor Laura could write; when they signed documents in 1843 and 1851 relinquishing legal claims to their respective parents' lands, they marked their names with an "X." The latter transaction led to litigation — in March 1851, John and his siblings sold their late father's 159-acre farm (on the hill between Coke Oven Hollow and Smith Hollow) to Solomon Baldwin. Five years later, a dispute arose after Baldwin only paid part of the purchase price, claiming that 5 of the acres had no title and that the defective tract (containing "a road to the house") caused "injury to the farm." A panel of arbitrators heard the case and awarded John $100 in damages.

Laura died sometime before 1880, and her burial site is unknown. John then moved in with son Charles at Casselman, Pa. His death date is not recorded, but he is said to be buried in an unmarked grave at the Lutheran Cemetery in Kingwood. In death, the couple largely faded from memory, but not entirely. They were briefly mentioned in the 1906 volume, History of Bedford and Somerset Counties. As well, some of their descendants attended the first annual Minerd Reunion in August 1913 at Ohiopyle, Pa., and heard John and Laura's names in a speech by Minerd cousin Allen Edward Harbaugh. They were remembered again in October 1934, when Otto Roosevelt Younkin, a distant cousin and genealogist, interviewed one of their elderly sons for a research project in connection with the newly-started Younkin Reunion.

The 10 children of John and Laura Younkin included:

Catherine Younkin (1833 - ?) was a "domestic," lived with her parents as an adult and never married. Censuses, the 1906 history and Otto Younkin's notes provide the only scant clues of her existence.

Eli Younkin (1836-1912) was born and reared in Lower Turkeyfoot Twp. He married Mary Ann Rose, and they had three daughters, Christina, Amanda and Harriet C. During the Civil War they moved to Illinois, perhaps after the birth of their youngest daughter. Mary Ann died shortly afterward, in 1865, and was buried in Franklin Grove, ILL. Her 29-year old widower soon returned to Kingwood and in 1869 married Sarah Lichliter. Little of their adult years is known, except that they lived in Smith Hollow south of Kingwood between Humbert Road and what is now Route 281. Sarah died on March 8, 1912, and Eli died of a lung abscess just 10 days later. Both are buried at the Kingwood Cemetery, and their headstone has been a site on the Younkin Reunion tours of the 1990s. Amanda married William Wallace Hechler; Harriet married Benjamin Romesburg and Elijah Turney; and Christina married John Wesley Nedrow.

Son in law Romesburg was killed in 1901 when a stone hurled by an explosion crushed his skull during excavation for the Ursina Coal and Coke Company store. Amanda Hechler was a member of the 1st organized adult Bible class of the Kingwood Church of God, where she was a 40-year member, and a certificate with her name (among others) hangs in the church today. The Nedrows moved to Maitland, Mo., in the 1880s.

William Shedrick Younkin (1838-1923) was nicknamed "Shed." He married Caroline Cupp, and they lived in Black Twp. before moving to a 122-acre farm near Rockwood. When one of their daughters gave birth out of wedlock, Shed signed a legal agreement to keep and maintain the boy at his own expense. Later in life, Shed suffered the deaths of 2 married daughters, Edith and Elizabeth. He is thought to have attended the 1st annual Minerd Reunion in 1913 at Ohio Pyle. In August 1923, he had a stroke and died a week later. Among the assets at his death were shares of stock of Economy Telephone Co. Caroline died a year later, and both are buried at Rhoads Cemetery near Rockwood. Their children were Levi "Grant" Younkin; Ella Elizabeth, wife of Jonathan Edward Hauger; Thomas Wilbert Younkin; Missouri, wife of George E. Wingard; Edith, wife of George Miller; Elizabeth Wable; and Susan Younkin. The Haugers operated a grocery store in Rockwood for many years near the Western Maryland Railroad depot. Great-grandson 2nd Lt. Louis E. Younkin was killed in World War II, and his name is etched on a war memorial in the Rockwood IOOF Cemetery.

Jacob M. Younkin (1840-1863) was killed in the Civil War as a private with the 85th Pennsylvania Infantry. (YFNB, July 1993) Prior to the war, he married Mary Jane Christner and had a son J. Harvey. Jacob enlisted in November 1861 and drilled at Uniontown, Pa. While drunk there one night he married a 2nd woman just before leaving town. Six months later, on May 31, 1862, while defending against a Confederate attack at the Battle of Seven Pines/Fair Oaks, near Richmond, he was killed in action, and buried in an unmarked grave. Following his death, both widows stepped forward to claim his pension. It took years for the government to sort out which wife was which. After 7 years, Mary Jane was finally proven the true spouse, though by then she had died after remarrying Daniel K. Grim and having had 5 more children. With his mother's remarriage, Harvey became solely eligible for the pension, and a local postmaster was assigned as his guardian. Harvey lived in Pennsville and Dawson, and attended the Soldiers Orphans School in Uniontown. As an adult, he taught music and school in Connellsville and Uniontown, and sold organs and pianos. A teller of tall tales, he had a life of misadventures and scrapes with the law that generated lively news coverage. He died — unmarried — in 1931 at the age of 71, and is buried in Connellsville, Pa.

Charles Younkin (1845-1921) married Sarah Artest and adopted a son, Alfred Arthur Younkin, known as "Alf" or "A.A.". They lived in Casselman, Pa., where Charles was a railroad laborer and coal miner. Sarah died of stomach cancer in 1906 and is buried in an unmarked grave at the Mt. Union Cemetery. A.A. played trombone in the Casselman Cornet Band, is pictured in the recently published book, Down the Road of Our Past, and is said to have taught locally. In 1914, Charles and A.A. moved to Wenatchee, Wash., where Charles got work as a coal miner. A.A. eventually founded an apple sorting and packing business with his wife Lillian that remained in family ownership until the late 1970s. Charles died in 1921 and is buried in the Wenatchee Cemetery. A.A. often sent crates of apples at Christmas to his cousins in Pennsylvania. A.A.'s granddaughter Diana Egan, interested in preserving the family's heritage, organized the 1996 Younkin Reunion-West in Turner, Ore., drawing 50 people and establishing a committee and fund for future events. Diana's account of the reunion is on the World Wide Web at www.intrepid.net/~fanfare/reunion.html.

Josiah Younkin (1848-1876?) is nearly silent in the historical record. His wife Rachel's story is much better known and colorful — married at age 19; a Civil War widow and single mother at 21; ultimately to have 6 children by 3 husbands and a significant other. Her full name was Rachel (Phillippi) Gearhard-Younkin-Wilkins, and by today's standards she would be called a survivor. Her 1st husband, Samuel Gearhard, of the 142nd Pennsylvania Infantry, was captured at the Battle of the Wilderness and died at the notorious Andersonville Prison. The government awarded Rachel a pension of $8 per month. She remained a widow until 1869, when she married Josiah Younkin. The remarriage caused her to forfeit the pension but it became solely payable to her daughter Alice. Rachel and Josiah lived near Casselman, Pa., and had 2 daughters of their own — Mary Agnes, born in 1870, and Minnie Elizabeth, born in 1872. Then, sometime before July 3, 1876, Josiah died of causes not known. The loss left Rachel a 2-time widow at age 33. His passing also left her with a large unpaid bill for goods purchased from the firm of Weimer & Walter, leading to a lawsuit. She lost the case and had to pay $21.28 plus court costs. That same year, Rachel signed a note promising to pay daughter Alice the sum of $400, perhaps as accrued pension funds. The signature of "Rachel Younkin" on the note, filed at the Somerset County courthouse, is a rare example of her handwriting and name as a Younkin. By 1880, she had become a companion of Jack Hobson and then by 1885 had married John Wilkins. Wilkins eventually died in a housefire, and his body was never recovered. After being widowed a 3rd time, and then enduring the death of daughter Mary Agnes in 1910, she moved to the home of daughter Minnie in Deerfield, Ohio, where she died in 1915 at age 72. Her remains were brought back to Casselman for burial at Mt. Union Cemetery. Mary Agnes married James Crabtree and lived near Donegal, Pa. Minnie Elizabeth married James A. Rhodes and lived in Hardy, Neb., before settling in Portage Co., Ohio in about 1910. The Rhodes' daughter Lillian married A.A. Younkin, went to Washington State with her in-laws and worked as an apple packer and sorter in the family business for some 60 years.

Daniel Martin Younkin (1853-1935) was born in Upper Turkeyfoot Twp. and left school at age 14 to work for the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad. Two years later, he moved to Mt. Pleasant, Pa., to help make boats, and stayed for 14 years. After returning to Rockwood, he rejoined the B&O, working as a car knocker and track section foreman until retirement. Married twice, his 1st wife was Elmira Miranda Zimmerman, and his 2nd wife was Susan Swick. His children to Elmira were Catherine L. Younkin; Sarah 'Gertrude,' wife of John Martin Weaver; Mary Eliza Younkin; John William 'Emory' Younkin; Malzena, wife of Harry Shaffer; Lulu Malinda Younkin; and Georgia 'Missouri,' wife of Ira Clinton Shumaker. Daniel's only child to Susan was Alice, wife of Silas J. Gary. Daniel was "highly respected in the community," profiled in the 1906 Somerset County history and mentioned in the 1957 booklet Rockwood Centennial. In October 1934, just 4 months before his death, he was interviewed by cousin Otto Younkin, providing valuable genealogy insights that otherwise would have been lost. Daniel and both wives are buried at the Rockwood IOOF Cemetery. Son in law Weaver, a coal train crewmember, was killed in 1927 by a moving locomotive at Salisbury Junction near Meyersdale, Pa. Son Emory attended the 1913 Miner's Reunion with his wife Mary and daughters Georgia and Gertrude. Emory worked for the B&O for 49 years despite losing a leg in a train accident, was on the crew that built the Sand Patch Tunnel southeast of Meyersdale, and his retirement in 1947 was headline news in the Somerset County Leader.

Josephine Moan (1857 - ?) married Michael Moan, apparently a Canadian. She lived in Dunbar, Pa., and had a daughter Annie. By 1880 the daughter was residing in Casselman with her uncle and aunt, Charles and Sarah (Artest) Younkin. The Moans' fates are unknown.

Mary Caton-Davis (? - ?) is recorded only in Otto Younkin's notes. She lived in Dunbar, Pa., and was married twice, 1st to a man named Caton, and 2nd to Ed Davis. Nothing else is known.

Millie/Nellie Younkin (? - ?) The only records of her existence — the 1906 history and Otto Younkin's notes — state that she died young.

For more information on the multiple Younkin/Miner connections, see the October 1992, July 1991 and April 1990 issues of the YFNB.

Family History by Ruth Leuthardt

RR #1 Monroe City, IN 47557; (812) 743-2436

Dear Donna,

... Enclosed please find pictures of Grandma and Grandpa Hannah and John Henry Jr. John is a brother to Nancy Henry. Enclosed is a letter by Ruth Helen Henry, a school teacher:

"Great grandfather and grandmother John Henry came from England to America and settled in Somerset County in the town of Scullton. They at one time practically owned all the land of Scullton. He gave each of his children farms. (It was necessary to clear all this land as it was a wilderness).

"Children of John Henry — Thomas, Daniel, Jonathan, David, William, Jacob, John (youngest), Fannie and Margaret. Daniel and Johnathan, are some where in the west, whereabouts unknown (at that time).

"My grandfather Thomas Henry was born Nov. 14, 1830 and died Feb. 21st 1912 at Scullton. He was a member of Co. K 88th Regiment. He was not a volunteer. He was drafted. He was twice married. His first wife (my grandmother) was Catherine Miller. To this union eight children were born. Amanda Bitner is only survivor (1949 being 83 years old) since passed away.

"His second wife was Eliza Stout who died Oct. 28th 1921. To this union eight children were born. Those who survive are Andrew J. Henry (90 June 1961), Lucinda McGuire (died Feb 1962) and Ira D. Henry (78). My aunt Sophia Matthews died Dec. 29th 1924. Buried in Cleveland Dec. 31st, Aunt Mary Bittner died before Aunt Sophia. My father William Henry died Jan. 16th 1939 - born May 26th 1855 - 84 yrs 8 mo 10 da. Susannah Shelley died Nov. 17th 1945 - born 1858, age 87 yrs

"My grandmother Henry was a Miller, daughter of Jacob Miller. Uncle Andrew died Feb. 12th 1962, in June 1961 he was 90 yrs old."

I can't prove all is correct. Thomas Henry married Catherine Miller a sister to Hannah Henry's first husband Michael Miller, Jonas Gary married Joanna Miller, also a sister, Mary Gary married Abraham Miller, a brother. So you see these people married many times in families. In closing I am also sending the papers on Rebecca Gary Henry Schmuck. I am wondering which HENRY Rebecca married.

I am also looking for information on Margaret Henry who married John Gary? Sincerely yours, Ruth Leuthardt

Howell, O'Donnell wed in winter rites

Mr. and Mrs. Troy Allen O'Donnell

The Historic Church in Tallmadge Circle was the setting for the January 20, 1996, ceremony uniting Ann Elizabeth Howell and Troy Allen O'Donnell in marriage. The Rev. John M. Schluep officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Flora and Donald Howell of Tallmadge, Ohio. The bridegroom is the son of Billie and Pete O'Donnell of Akron.

Donna Cetnarowski, aunt of the bride, was the matron of honor. Pete O'Donnell, father of the groom, was the best man.

Groomsmen included Mark O'Donnell, Jeff O'Donnell and Ed O'Donnell, brothers of the bridegroom, and John Howell, brother of the bride.

After a reception at the All Seasons Party Center in Akron, the couple left for a honeymoon trip to Huntersville, NC.

The bride is a 1991 graduate of Tallmadge High School. She received a bachelor's degree in education from the University of Akron in 1995 and is employed as a math teacher in Charlotte, N.C.

The bridegroom is a 1989 graduate of Ellet High School. He received his bachelor's degree in interpersonal and public communication from the University of Akron in 1995 and is employed as a customer service representative by the First Union Bank of Charlotte.

The couple is residing in Huntersville.

Renowned Alzheimer's researcher joins Mayo

Dr. Steven Younkin, nationally known for his work to find a treatment for Alzheimer's disease, joined Mayo Clinic Jacksonville's Department of Research May 1 [1995].

Younkin works with Dr. Elliott Richelson, director for Research since the clinic began laboratory studies in 1989, and two other investigators. Richelson propelled the Alzheimer's research program from a small operation in temporary trailers to a state-of-the-art laboratory with 35 scientists and support staff. The program is housed in the four-story Birdsall Medical Research Building.

Younkin brings with him eight researchers from his lab at Case Western Reserve University School of Medicine in Cleveland. He will succeed Richelson as director for Research Oct. 1.

The pathologist and pharmacologist is known worldwide for his study of the role amyloid beta protein plays in the development of Alzheimer's. Younkin's research has shown that amyloid deposits are key early events in the disease. Researchers are looking for drugs to turn off production of the protein that forms amyloid.

"If we could find a drug," Richelson says, "we might slow, stop or reverse this disease, which robs the brain of its memory, judgment and personality."

"I can't tell you how much ground we've covered in the last 10 years," Younkin says. "It's extraordinary but it's frustrating. There's so much that needs to be done. There are great opportunities here."

Younkin earned a doctorate in pharmacology and a medical degree from the University of Pennsylvania. He joined Case Western Reserve University School of Medicine as a professor of pharmacology in 1978 and later also was appointed professor of pathology.

The national Alzheimer's Disease and Related Disorders Association has given Younkin its highest honor, the Zenith Award, and the Society for Neuroscience named him one of four "Current Figures in Alzheimer's Disease Research" in 1994. In 1995, he was one of three scientists in the world to receive the American Academy of Neurology's top prize for his work in Alzheimer's.

Dr. Younkin is married to Linda Elizabeth Harrington and they are the parents of Sarah Christine Younkin, Samuel Guy Younkin, and Curtis Steven Younkin.

Another article regarding his research

Janet Felo, of Freedom, PA, sent this article titled "Alzheimer clues confound researchers" by Delthia Ricks, Orlando Sentinel, which appeared in her local newspaper near Freedom:

Every so often in a disease as complicated as Alzheimer's, there come hints of things so confounding that even the researchers producing the clues are astonished by what they've found. Could it be that some people are naturally protected against the incurable brain disorder while others acquire protection from something as simple as aspirin?

Some lifelong smokers who have maintained the habit into old age (and remain fortunate enough not to die of lung cancer), have surprisingly low rates of Alzheimer's disease, scientists say. The low incidence rates also appear to be true for people who take particularly high doses of aspirin and related medications.

Dr. Jack Riggs of the Department of Neurology at the West Virginia Health Sciences Center suggests that it's probably not anything in cigarettes that's saving some old smokers, but a way in which their genes respond to assaults that renders them "immune" to the disease. In a recent issue of the British medical journal The Lancet, Riggs said such smokers apparently have superior DNA-repair mechanisms. When their genetic material is damaged by the myriad chemicals in cigarettes, their bodies effectively mend the breaks.

By logical extension, other types of DNA damage, such as that caused by Alzheimer's disease, probably also undergo a quick repair, Riggs and his team say.

But what is it about the class of drugs known as anti-inflammatory agents, which includes aspirin, that seems to have a protective effect against the degenerative disorder?

"No one really knows," Dr. Steven Younkin, a professor of neuroscience at Case Western Reserve University in Cleveland, said. Mostly anecdotal evidence, Younkin said, links low rates of Alzheimer's to higher-than-usual aspirin intake.

Ralph and Martha Younkin Celebrate 50 years together

Ralph and Martha Younkin

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph W. Younkin, Somerset, PA, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary recently.

Mrs. Younkin, the former Martha E. Coddington, was born in Rockwood. She is the daughter of the late Milton and Mary Ann (Warsing) Coddington. Ralph was born in Milford Township. He is the son of the late Charles E. and Lavenia (Dumbauld) Younkin.

They were married in Cumberland, MD., by the Rev. Baughman at the parsonage. They first lived as newlyweds in Milford Township, where they still reside.

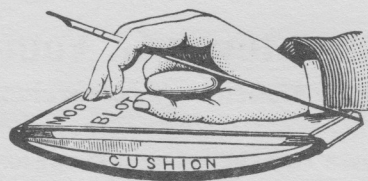

They are members of the New Centerville Church of God.

Ralph worked for C. W. Dillion in Calumet as a lumberman and for Pa. Department of Highway and for the Crane Co. in Somerset. He and his wife are both retired.

They are the parents of two boys: Ralph E. Younkin of Somerset and David R. Younkin, married to Vicki Marie (Henley) Younkin, Winchindon, MA. They have three grandsons. The anniversary was celebrated on April 23 with a surprise brunch buffet at Oakhurst Tea Room.

Ralph enjoys gardening and his wife enjoys baking and sewing.

Youngken authors African Americans in Newport

Scholars have recently paid increased attention to the big picture in African-American history, but there is still much unexplored material in communities around the country. African Americans in Newport, an illustrated history published by the Rhode Island Historical Preservation and Heritage Commission and the Rhode Island Black Heritage Society, fills in the many gaps of the picturesque port community's history. The book, by Richard C. Youngken, traces the city's black heritage from 1700 until the close of World War II. Youngken supplements his historical narrative with a list of historic resources and with concise workd portraits of representative individuals, beginning with Arthur Flagg (1739-1816), a ropemaker, a judge, and an official of the African Union Society. Apparently all that is known about Pompey Brenton, however, is contained on his burial stone in Newport's Common Burying Ground. At first glance the stone appears to be incised with routine funereal art of the kind to be found on eighteenth-century tombstones throughout New England. But a closer look reveals the stone's angelic representation of Brenton, who died in 1772, to have African features.

Letter to German Families

traditions or stories that might help us with this research? Do any German families know of those who emigrated to the U.S.A.? Have any members of your family or others, researched the family history in the past? If so, we would very much like to discover that information.

Thank you for taking time to read our letter, we sincerely hope that you and your family will be able to help us with our family research. We want to share the results of our research with you and your family. Just let us know that you are interested and we promise to stay in touch with you as our research progresses.

To simplify things, we have enclosed a postage paid envelope. There is a short form enclosed, which can easily and quickly completed, thereby allowing you to let us know soon, that you have information and/or are interested.

When we receive the questionnaire from you and an indication that you have further information and wish to continue a correspondence, we will send additional postage.

Both Roger and I are also on the World Wide Web on the Internet at the following e-mail addresses:

Questionnaire (separate sheet)

This is one of the responses we've received:

My investigations for the roots of our family in Gemuenden, I found that the clan came from Frankenberg to Gemuenden. In 1653 the baker Johannes Jungehen, son of the baker Daniel Jungehen, married a wife from Gemuenden and decided to life with here in Gemuenden. In 1662 his brother, the tailor Johan Conrad followed him. He also married a wife from Gemuenden. Further investigations lead to the conclusion, that at least seven families named "Jungehen" lived in Frankenberg. These families were closely related.

1630 the tanners guild register, residing in an own guild house in Frankenberg, notes a tanner named Jungehen (no first name mentioned). He lived in the "Walkegraben" where the pelts were soaked and kneaded ("walken" = "to knead"). From other sources it is not unlikely that this tanner was named "Hermanus" who died at the 12. August 1653. Further members of the clan were:

- Johannes Jungehen senior, locksmith and Ursula, his wife.

- Daniel Junghenn, baker, likely to be a brother of Johannes.

- Johannes Jungehen junior, shoemaker, likely to be the son of the locksmith, - Andreas, baker, a son of Daniel, his wives maiden name was "Engel".

- Johan Conrad, a brother of Andreas, tailor, neither profession nor marital status are mentioned. He is likely to be the tailor that moved to Gemuenden in 1662.

- Herman, married with Elisabeth, only called "citizen", probably because he was the only "Herman". He had two sons ("Hermanus" and "Christeanus").

- The last to mention is a "Johannes Jungehen" a miller living on the mill in Roeddenau. A descendant of this name fought in 1747-48 in the later US as an Hessian soldier.

Around 1680 the last Jungehen mentioned in den parish registers of Frankenberg is a "Johannes". It appears that he had no (adult) sons but only daughters so that the name became extinct in Frankenberg while it continued to exist in Gemuenden and Allendorf/Eder.

The above mentioned state of the parish registers (missing or illegible pages, first names mentioned or not, the handwriting of the different priests and so on) makes it difficult to get more precise informations, but it is remarkable the all mentioned persons are designated as "citizen", designated as somehow privileged persons. This and the fact that so many different trades could be found in the clan makes it likely that the Jungehens lived in Frankenberg for a long time. This because it was expensive to buy the citizenship of such an old and respected city like Frankenberg was in this period and because it needed more than just money that skip the borders of the guilds like the Jungehens did.

Frankenberg was founded in 520 as fortress of the "Franken" against the "Sachsen". It was promoted to a city by Carolus Magnus around 950. Newcomers had to buy the citizenship, which was expensive because Frankenberg was a very attractive point of trade with best connections to the south of Germany and the Switzerlands. E.g. around 1240 a man named Wigand Beseler, a wealthy trader from Basel, was "Schultheis" the major of Frankenberg.

The name changed from "Jungehen" around 1650 to "Junghen" in 1700 and finally to "Junghenn" around 1780.

In Frankfurt/Main you can find two Junghenn clans. While one is descended from our clan in Gemuenden, the other comes from the region of "Donaueschingen" in the southern Black Forrest. Also the Junghenns in Kassel is descended from our clan in Gemuenden. The oldest mentioning of the name "Jungehen" in our region we found is dated 1493 in Marburg. A "N. Jungehen" married a wife named "Berta" or "Bechta Roemer". He was a trader, because an invoice from him to Ludwig von Sachsen for oats has remained. The "N" might probably be an abbreviation of "Nikolaus" as this name is mentioned again later.

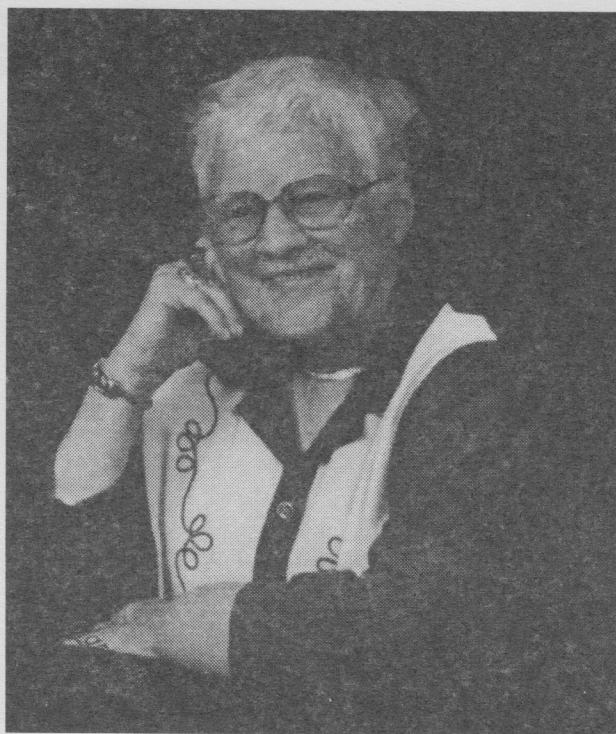

As our surname is quite rare and mostly comes from the region of Frankenberg, and because Kassel was the capitoll city of the principality of "Kur-Hessen", the northern part of today's Hassia, it is not unlikely that Roger's ancestors came from Frankenberg.
